

Study Abroad in Australia

I have learned many things through this study tour in Australia.

I would like to introduce what I learned in Australia by dividing it into four topics.

Mabel Park State High School

Mabel park state high school had many students from different ethnic backgrounds. There were also many specialized places such as facilities for making things and clothes, haircuts, etc. I was able to experience the morning tea culture, which is not available in Japan, and had a very fulfilling day. The local students were very cheerful, and handshakes and hugs were like greetings. I was able to get used to the atmosphere of the high school.

Language school

At the Language School, I actually had conversations with teachers in English and learned grammar and grammar. Some of the students were from Hong Kong, so I was able to converse with many different people in English. In addition to grammar lessons, I had valuable experiences such as going to the beach in front of the school, playing on the playground equipment, and listening to a traditional Aboriginal instrument performance.

Homestay

In the homestay, I went to see the ocean and sunsets, watched a live soccer game, and interacted with kangaroos. I felt like I was in Australia and enjoyed all the places I went. Most of the meals were the same as those commonly eaten in Japan, such as sandwiches and pasta, but they were very tasty.

What I learned through this program

The best result of this study tour in Australia was that I was able to speak English with many people, including my host family and teachers at the language school. On my first day in Australia, I was at a loss because I couldn't speak at all, but as the days went by, I gradually became able to respond to what my host family was saying, and I think I managed to have a conversation with my new buddy. I also saw many beautiful landscapes, and there are many worlds overseas that we do not know about. I would like to learn more English so that I can speak fluently with local people.
