問 3	To make a sustainable tourist spot, it is necessary for both visitors and locals to be satisfied. Asking the visitors for some extra fees is a good way to reach that goal. First, I will ask the visitors to pay a little more when they enter the Flower Park so that local people don't have to pay. Michael says it is not good that local people have to pay money "just to go for a walk." On the other hand, visitors must be happier to pay more for the Flower Park because it is a special place for them. If they pay more, the local people can enjoy the park for free. Second, I will make a special area in the Flower Park for visitors. In that area, visitors may pick flowers and bring them back home if they pay some extra money. If you make such a special area for flower picking, John will not be angry because visitors pay for it and they can take something home. In addition, visitors can show respect for the park staff by paying money for their hard work. If we have such an area, everyone can enjoy the park more. (198 words)	観点A 10点
